Getting Started

Medicare

Let's get started

What's Medigap?

Original Medicare pays for many, but not all, health care services and supplies. Medicare Supplement Insurance (Medigap) is extra insurance you can buy from a private health insurance company to help pay your share of out-of-pocket costs in Original Medicare, like copayments, coinsurance, and deductibles.

If you have a Medigap policy and get care, Medicare will pay its share of the Medicare-approved amounts for covered health care costs. Then, your Medigap policy pays its share. You pay the private insurance company a monthly premium for your Medigap policy in addition to the monthly Part B premium you pay to Medicare.

How is Medigap different from a Medicare Advantage Plan?

A Medigap policy is different from a Medicare Advantage Plan. A Medicare Advantage Plan is another way to get your Medicare coverage besides Original Medicare, while a Medigap policy only helps pay for the costs that Original Medicare doesn't cover.

Insurance companies generally can't sell you a Medigap policy if you have coverage through a Medicare Advantage Plan. If you have Medigap and switch to a Medicare Advantage Plan for the first time, you have the right to change your mind. You'll have special rights under federal law to buy a Medigap policy if you return to Original Medicare within 12 months of joining the Medicare Advantage Plan.

What policies are available?

Every Medigap policy must follow federal and state laws designed to protect you, and policies must be clearly identified as "Medicare Supplement Insurance." Insurance companies can only sell you a standardized Medigap policy, identified in most states by letters, Plans A–D, F, G, and K–N. In Massachusetts, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, Medigap policies are standardized in a different way. Visit Medicare.gov/health-drug-plans/medigap for more information.

All standardized policies offer the same basic benefits no matter where you live or which insurance company you buy the policy from.

Plans E, H, I, and J are no longer sold, but, if you already have one, you can generally keep it. Contact your insurance company for more information.

In some states, you may be able to buy another type of Medigap policy called Medicare SELECT. These are standardized plans that may require you to use hospitals and, in some cases, doctors within its network to be eligible for full benefits (except in an emergency). If you have Medigap and switch to a Medicare SELECT policy, you have the right under federal law to change your mind within 12 months and switch to a standardized Medigap policy.

Since January 1, 2020, Medigap plans sold to people new to Medicare can no longer cover the Part B deductible. Because of this, Plans C and F aren't available to people new to Medicare on or after January 1, 2020 (those who turned 65 on or after January 1, 2020, and those who got Part A on or after January 1, 2020). People new to Medicare on or after January 1, 2020, have the right to buy Plan D or G instead of Plan C or F.

If you already have either of these plans (or the high deductible version of Plan F), or you were covered by one of these plans before January 1, 2020, you'll be able to keep your plan. If you were eligible for Medicare before January 1, 2020, but haven't yet enrolled, you may be able to buy Plan C or Plan F.

When's the best time to buy a Medigap policy?

The best time to buy a Medigap policy is during your Medigap Open Enrollment Period when you have the right to buy any Medigap policy sold in your state. This 6-month period starts the first month you have Medicare Part B (Medical Insurance), and you're 65 or older. Some states have additional Open Enrollment Periods, including those for people under 65. Check with your State Insurance Department to learn about what rights you might have under state law.

How do I compare Medigap plans?

	Medicare Supplement Insurance Plans (Medigap)

Out-of-pocket limit (2024)

$7,060	$3,530

* Plans F and G offer a high-deductible plan in some states (Plan F isn't available to people new to Medicare on or after January 1, 2020). If you get the high-deductible option, you must pay for Medicare-covered costs (coinsurance, copayments, and deductibles) up to the deductible amount of $2,800 in 2024 before your policy pays anything, and you must also pay a separate deductible ($250 per year) for foreign travel emergency care.

For Plans K and L, after you meet your out-of-pocket yearly limit and your yearly Part B deductible ($240 in 2024), the Medigap plan pays 100% of covered services for the rest of the calendar year.

 Plan N pays 100% of the costs of Part B services, except for a copayment of up to $20 for some office visits and up to a $50 copayment for emergency room visits that don't result in an inpatient admission.

What's not covered by Medigap?

Medigap doesn't cover everything. Medigap policies generally don't cover:

- Long-term care (like non-skilled care you get in a nursing home)
- Vision or dental care
- Hearing aids
- Eyeglasses
- Private-duty nursing

Other important facts

- Generally, you must have Original Medicare – Part A (Hospital Insurance) and Part B (Medical Insurance) – to buy a Medigap policy.
- You pay the private insurance company a monthly premium for your Medigap policy in addition to the monthly Part B premium that you pay to Medicare. Your insurance company will let you know how to pay your monthly premium.
- A Medigap policy only covers one person. Spouses must buy separate policies.
- Although some Medigap policies sold in the past covered prescription drugs, Medigap plans sold after 2005 don't include prescription drug coverage. If you want drug coverage, you can join a separate Medicare drug plan (Part D).

- It's important to compare Medigap policies since the costs can vary and premiums may go up as you get older. The benefits in each lettered plan are the same, no matter which insurance company sells it. The premium amount is the only difference between policies with the same plan letter sold by different companies. Each insurance company decides how it'll set the price, or premium, for its Medigap policies. Some states may impose limits on how much insurance companies can charge.
